A Seat at the Table: The Impact of Nurses in the Boardroom

By Kathleen K. Borenstein

FORWARD: Dr. Kathy Borenstein was the invited guest speaker for the recent General Membership and Transition of Officers Meeting held in mid-June. Presentation highlights herein are for the benefit of all Mu Theta-at-Large members who were unable to attend this timely session at the College of Saint Elizabeth (CSE). The program was planned by Dr. Eileen Specchio, Professor of Nursing, CSE and Shakira Abdul-Razzaq, Vice President representing CSE.

Most Trusted Profession

Time and time again, nurses have been identified as the most trusted profession. How can we leverage this trust? How can we have an impact on the future of healthcare? The forces have all aligned and it is up to us to take advantage of this opportunity. For nursing to have an impact and be a force, the profession must recognize its value and the impact that over three million practitioners can make in influencing the path forward.

A Pivotal Role for Nursing

The IOM report challenged nurses and decision makers to engage, to become involved in making a difference, stating “nurses should be full partners in reforming healthcare”. The report recognizes nursing’s invaluable contributions and envisions nursing having a pivotal role not only in public health, education, and research, but also in the business aspect, governance, and in shaping public policy. The report warned that change would not succeed unless nurses are active partners in the transformation of our healthcare system. The changing face of healthcare coupled with the Institute of Medicine’s report, Future of Nursing: Leading Change, Advancing Healthcare, has driven nursing leaders to form the National Action Coalition (NAC) whose goal is to develop a blue print for our future.

Four Key Pillars

The NAC, a joint partnership with Association for Advancement of Retired Persons and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation has taken up the charge launching the Future of Nursing: Campaign for Action, to implement the recommendations of the IOM. The NAC has identified four pillars to focus their efforts: Scope of Practice, Education, Data, and Leadership.

Scope of practice speaks to nurses practicing to the full extent of their education and training. Currently state laws vary for Advanced Practice Nursing from supervisory to collaborative to true independent practice. Through legislative efforts to support independent practice APNs have the opportunity to provide primary care to underserved populations lacking primary care physicians.

The Education Pillar focuses on three initiatives including academic progression, development of residency programs, and preceptorships. The goal is for eighty percent of all nurses to have a baccalaureate degree by 2020 and to increase the number of doctorate prepared nurses by that same year. Development of residency programs will better prepare nurses for entry into practice for novice nurses and provide a structure for new APNs. A curriculum for preceptors is being developed to train and mentor those residents caring for older adults in long term care facilities. Rutgers faculty is leading this initiative in conjunction with the New Jersey Hospital Association with funding from The Horizon Foundation and the New Jersey Chamber of Commerce.

Workforce data is needed across all health care professions if fundamental transformation is to occur. Major gaps exist in current data related to staffing patterns, staffing mix and number of FTEs (full time equivalents). The NAC is working to create a national picture of the nursing workforce as a method of projecting future needs. Many professions have no data for comparison, making it difficult to implement policies going forward.

Fundamental to communicating the value of nursing is the Leadership Pillar. A central tenet of this pillar is to communicate the value of nursing leadership by forging relationships with stakeholders that can provide opportunities. It is vital that nursing leaders have the ability to collaborate with healthcare and business leaders at the local, state, and national levels. The placement of nursing leaders on community and hospital boards is a priority. The Action Coalition has developed a program called Nurses in the Boardroom to raise awareness, create relationships between health care organizations and nurse leaders and to train future nurse leaders.

Ideal Board Members

In addition to their broad healthcare perspective, nurses possess many skills that make them ideal board members including clinical expertise, an understanding of operations, strong collaboration and team skills. Nurses are community oriented, innovative thinkers and their insight and perspective is one no one else has at the table.

Donald Berwick, MD, former head of the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) and the Institute for Healthcare Improvement (IHI) strongly supports and values nursing leadership at the table.

“I think that boards should understand that the performance of organizations depends as much on the well-being, engagement, and capabilities of nursing leaders, as it does on physicians. I would encourage much closer relationships between nursing and the board.”

Donald Berwick, MD

Currently, even among academic healthcare institutions, less than 20 percent have nurses on their boards, many have none. The NAC has developed a nursing leadership database with a goal of recommending and helping to get nurses appointed to boards. Other leadership opportunities are being identified and a governance competency has been developed to prepare leaders for board membership.

As leaders, we all need to actively participate in the advancement of nursing’s role in the conversation. There is a lot of work to do. For starters, we need to promote, engage, and encourage others. There are opportunities to become active at many levels: hospital or community committees, exploring board membership within nursing organizations at the national level or organizations you currently support. Join the New Jersey Chapter of the National Action Coalition.

The NAC and The Future of Nursing Campaign are working diligently to bring visibility and to empower and educate nurses as future leaders. We must take the lead in ensuring not only the success of our profession but our healthcare system.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Kathleen Borenstein, DNP, RN, CCRN was the invited speaker for the recent General Membership Meeting of Mu Theta-at-Large. Dr. Borenstein gave an insightful talk titled “A Seat at the Table: The Impact of Nurses in the Boardroom” in Santa Rita Hall at the College of Saint Elizabeth. Dr. Borenstein identified the four key pillars from the IOM Future of Nursing Report. She discussed expectations for nursing leadership (outlined in the landmark study) while our country evolves in an era of uncertainty related to healthcare reform. She also addressed why nurses are not necessarily regarded as full partners/leaders and suggested ways for members of the profession to counter this shared perception.

Lisa Garsman, MS, APRN, BC is the recipient of the 2015 Chapter Research Grant Award for $1,500 presented during the Induction. Lisa is pursuing a doctoral degree at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey—Newark. Her interest is in immigrant college students. She is the Director of the BSN Program at Saint Peter's University, Jersey City, NJ.

Kathleen Motacki, MSN, RN-BC was elevated to the rank of a full Clinical Professor at Saint Peter's University SON, Jersey City, New Jersey. Professor Motacki works in both classroom and clinical settings and specializes in Pediatric Nursing. She has published the following three nursing books: Nursing Delegation and Management of Patient Care (Mosby Elsevier Publishing); The Illustrated Guide to Safe Patient Handling and Movement; and The Illustrated Guide to Infection Control (the latter two with Springer Publishing).

Raissa Lynn G. Sanchez, BSN, RN delivered an inspiring Induction address for Mu Theta-at-Large during its 25th Anniversary Celebration held at the Madison Hotel in Morristown, NJ. She explained how she utilized her various leadership roles in STTI to travel abroad and voluntarily serve impoverished Dominican and Haitian communities. Raissa is the Immediate Past President of Iota Alpha of STTI at William Paterson University, the STTI UN DPI-NGO Youth Representative and the Co-Chair of the STTI Global Initiatives Committee.

Constance Sobon-Sensor, PhD, RN, CTN-A (pictured above) recently earned a PhD in Nursing Research and Theory Development from Seton Hall University. Dr. Sobon-Sensor successfully defended her qualitative research dissertation entitled “Health-related beliefs, practices, and experiences of migrant Dominicans in the Northeastern United States” (on 03 March 2015). She received an MSN in Clinical Management with a focus in Transcultural Nursing from Kean University and has been certified as an Advanced-level Transcultural Nurse (CTN-A) since 2003. She is a recognized expert in the power of culturally responsive nursing to meet the challenges of a global society, focusing on cultural health beliefs and practices, cultural etiquette, and strategies to gain acceptance into ethnic communities. She has published and presented widely on culturally competent health care, leadership and global health initiatives, including the UN Millennium Development Goals. Her current research explores the cultural beliefs, practices and experiences of an immigrant population related to health. Dr. Sobon-Sensor has been an active member of professional nursing communities. She served on the Board of Directors for Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing where she was the Secretary from 2011 to 2013, and Region 14 Coordinator from 2007 to 2011 and as a past Coordinator of the New Jersey Consortium of STTI Chapters for many years.

The Continued Mission Work at Hôpital Sacré Coeur - Milot, Haiti

By Judith Kutzleb

Hôpital Sacré Coeur (HSC) in Milot is the largest private hospital in northern Haiti, now serving a population of 225,000. Prior to the earthquake of 2010, HSC was a 70 bed hospital that focused mainly on maternal-child care and surgery. Post-earthquake HSC has expanded to a 122 bed facility without any structural expansion now offering both in-patient and outpatient services which include: ICU, Emergency Medicine, medical, pediatric, cardiology, orthopedic, dental, radiology and sonography services.

I have had the opportunity to lead medical missions four times per year since 2011. During this time, I developed cardiac Heart Failure (HF) protocols and implemented a HF and Postpartum Cardiomyopathy program with both the physician staff at HSC and 4 major cardiologists from The United States. The latter group is currently comprised of Dr. Joseph Kannam of Harvard University Medical School, Dr. Carl Turissini of Massachusetts General Hospital, Dr. William Battle of Georgetown University Medical School, and Dr. Robert Jarret—the founder of Hearts Around the World. Our cardiac teams have managed to schedule trips 10 out of the 12 months of the year, and have achieved consistency and sustainability in cardiac care through protocol development and a medication formulary.

My most recent visit was from 23 to 30 May 2015, which was focused on orienting physicians in orthopedics and podiatry while my colleague and partner managed the cardiac clinic. We were able to perform 19 ortho and podiatry surgeries in 4 days. The continued need for ongoing mission work remains a true necessity.

The most compelling aspect of my mission work is the fact that Haiti is the most impoverished third world county yet the people are a very proud culture and grateful for the care they receive, knowing that they will never be as rich as the poorest of poor in America.
